NORWAY AND VICINITY.

The Kickapoo Own the Town.

The Kickapoo display in Norway. Crowd Store windows has attracted a crowd.

The Indian seated in the window, and other members of the company are ready to tell people about these Indian remedies. There is a display of Indian beads and leather work, also various relics and curiosities. Books and samples are given away.

The shows at Concert hall, free for adults, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings are good shows and include moving pictures; illustrated songs; Nagry the musician; Billy Fitts, the black-faced comedian and musical artist; the chief, Red Cloud, in Indian dances and war whoops.

Nagry is all right in the "black art" illusions.

Wednesday evening after a short lecture on Kickapoo Medicines by a young appearing doctor "91 years old last Sunday," Billy sang some plantation songs with banjo accompaniment. It took him some time before the crowd in the house would let him retire from the stage. Nagry caused things with his banjo and disappeared, untied knots and unraveled complicated situations. Red Cloud gave a war dance and was recalled. Two illustrated songs were sung with a large number of beautifully colored pictures thrown upon canvas.

Thursday evening the complete play of Uncle Tom's Cabin is illustrated. They stay in town a week.

Norway's Watch Dog.

When George F. Hathaway was night watchman in the village, a little black dog came to him and insisted on sharing his labor and help after Norway village people while they slept.

He walked with him all night on his beat, night after night, waiting when Mr. Hathaway walked and stopping when he stopped; always close to him, and when everything was right. The dog left his home and friends to take up this, his life work. He wanted to be with the watchman and his former master gave him up and let him have his way.

When Mr. Hathaway was called to the dog went with him just the same, and gave up his former friend and partner in labor, Mr. Hathaway. It was the work that he was there for and he was ready to work with the one who did it. He went with Mr. Hathaway all through the year.

This year we again changed watchmen and the first night when Ernest Hutchins was on the job the dog was there too. The dog went with him all night, went home with him, ate his breakfast and insisted on going into Mr. Hutchins' room. When Mr. Hutchins awoke he found the dog sleeping on the floor beside his bed, well rested and ready for the next night's labor.

Central Park.

Central Park will be opened Saturday May 29th, for the season under the management of Leon Yeaton, who will endeavor to present its programs with the cleanest, best and most up to date motion pictures, vaudeville, music and illustrated songs at the popular price of ten cents.

Particular attention is called to our new Transiettes, the Life Savers of Cape Cod and Panama and the Great Canal. Dancing in the Pavilion, music by Yeaton and Adams Ladies' orchestra of three pieces. Change of pictures three times weekly.

Mrs. Lottie Crane is sick with a stomach trouble.

The young ladies of the Mercy class of the Baptist church gave Mrs. Clarence DeCoster, the teacher, a surprise party, Wednesday evening. Games were played and a very pleasant social evening enjoyed. The class presented Mrs. DeCoster with a nice picture and a box of candy.

Next Sunday the members of the Junior Y. P. C. U. will meet at the Universalist vestry at 3 p. m. and proceed to Rutledge and Pine Grove cemeteries where they will hold services and decorate the graves of four Universalist ministers, Rev. J. Timothy Tenney, Rev. Thomas Barnes, Rev. Lemuel H. Taber and Rev. W. W. Hooper.

It was whispered one to another at the High school, Monday morning, that Mr. Hathaway, the principal, had a little son at his house, and they were all glad, for some unknown reason they were given a lullaby song to sing that morning. They sang it with an interest never felt before and watched their teacher's face. Under the piercing gaze of those bright, teasing eyes it's no wonder he flushed "rosy red."

The F. H. Webb Co. have been making extensive repairs at their factory this season, which will enable them to do a larger business than ever before. A new 48-in. boiler has been installed and a smoke-stack 22 in. in diameter and 50 feet high soon be erected. There has also been added a double rotator, a new model cutting machine and a Combined Utley-Merrill-Soule Corn Silker, which is a fine self cleaning machine. There is a fine outlook this year for a large output in the canning business, as there are 275 acres of corn contracted for aside from the beans which will be canned. It is expected that if the crop turns out well that about 800,000 cans will be put up this year.

NUMBER 22.

Radcliffe Season Opens Next Saturday.

Manager Wm. Leith has set next Saturday, May 29, as the date for the opening game and the Radcliffe team will be launched on its summer cruise.

make this opening event an interesting affair, two games will be offered on the Fair Grounds. The first at 1.45 p. m. will be Norway High and Mechanic Falls High. After this contest Radcliffe will battle with Turner Center and an exciting game may be expected. Radcliffe will have her new team in the field while the visitors promise a line-up equally as good to meet this strong assembly of ball bangers.

Mr. Leith has also arranged for a double-header, Memorial day, games to be played on the Hayden lot, Pleasant street. In the forenoon Radcliffe will meet Hebron and in the afternoon the home club go up against Bryant Pond.

Radcliffe, 7; Lewiston C. A., 0.

Uncle Bill Leith's delegation of ball tossers made a lively for the Lewis C. A. on the Fair Grounds last Saturday afternoon, winning out with the one sided score 7-0.

The Lewiston visitors struck town in high spirits owing no doubt to an enviable record of four games won this season without a defeat and entered the contest with a generous show of confidence, feeling sure of adding one more victory to their unbroken string. They were young, nimble and exhibited good coaching all along the line, on the whole the team was fast, making an excellent showing while warming up.

Yet "Uncle Bill" seemed to hold the best hand, and presented a line-up for Radcliffe that couldn't be easily squelched by this exhibition of youthful agility.

The game started at a fast clip, in fact a trifle too fast for our Lewiston visitors to follow long. Their courage was way above par, but a punctured tire in the last half of the fifth inning blew out the spark plug to a general smash-up resulted.

In this mighty upheaval Radcliffe just pounded and bunted the ball, romped around the bases and had an enjoyable honeymoon at the expense of Creighton, the Lewiston pitcher, aided by confused errors from the support whose heads were in thin air during this cyclone. Those responsible for this calamity were King with a single; Houlier tapping out one, causing errors; Harrison laying down a bunt hit; Bearce also hunting and Lannan nailing out a two bagger.

During this bombardment while all was chaos in the Lewiston camp, Creighton, the pitcher, was unceremoniously benched and another twirler named O'Connell substituted. He entered the box with an air of a big leaguer but Frank Lannan, the new Radcliffe slugger, laid out the two bagger which emptied the bases and gave this new one his quietus.

Foley of Lewiston made one spectacular lay in center field, worthy of note, when he hauled down Lannan's sky-scaper with one hand, that looked good for a home run. This was certainly a right and the Norway rooters expressed their appreciation by a loud huzzah. This same player fielded a ball from center that caught Bearce at home plate. It certainly was a pretty throw and deserves credit. Another shining light in the Lewiston line was the catcher, His throwing is accurate and the work behind the plate is of the real kind.

The new Radcliffe backstop, Frank Lannan, proved to be a fast man, in fact one of the best catchers seen on the field. He is a strong player in every particular; a regular wall for Bill to throw against; a regular fender with the bat; a fast man on bases and a fellow winning fingers everywhere. Joe Harrison at short was right in and in the game every inning, especially on one lightning throw from his position to first that caught the sprinter when every fan considered the fast runner as good as safe. King was worked in right field strength to a strength to the team. He hauled down two dangerous ones that seemed like scares in the making. Ike Lowell appeared for the first time this season and worked out the creases which usually gather during the winter months. Tim Gannon held down first as usual in his usual form and batted to advantage. Fred Lafrance and Pete Boulier were especially strong with the willow, rapping out several pretty ones which helped the game along remarkably.

"Uncle Bill" officiated in the box, but never at any time did he seem to carry full steam. His usual assortment of cork screw twists were touched for only three scattering hits, while ten fishermen of the Lewiston kind did the ball in any form. The score:

What the Kidneys Do.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases—symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

L. N. Snell, living on Cottage St., Norway, Me., says: "Prior to using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered from kidney trouble for a long time. There was a pain through my back, almost constantly, the secretions were irregular in action and caused me great annoyance. Some few months ago Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I went to Stone's drug store and purchased a box. Since using them I have been feeling a great deal better than before in over a year. My kidneys show more strength, are regular in action and the secretions give me but little trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

BRYANT'S FOND.

The Good Old Town of Woodstock.

Among the many beautiful towns situated up in the pine clad hills of Oxford County there are few if any more favorably situated or with greater possibilities for development than our good old town of Woodstock of which this village is the center. It is doubtful if any other town, as citizens realize fully the possibilities for development and growth all about us. As a summer resort our possibilities are almost unlimited.

Lake Christopher is conceded to be one of the most beautiful bodies of water in New England and North Great Concord, Little Concord and Shagb ponds are close rivals. Within the past few years over a dozen cottages have been built around the shores of Lake Christopher, some of them costing thousands of dollars and this alone has greatly increased our valuation. Cottages have also been built on the shores of the other ponds in town and it seems probable that more will be built in the future as the demand for such places grows.

As a farming town Woodstock compares favorably with the surrounding towns. Although the land is hilly and perhaps rougher than that of some of the adjoining towns, yet our farmers are prosperous and progressive. As a fruit raising town Woodstock is one of the best. It has remained for R. L. Cummings and F. L. Wyman in the south part of our town to open our eyes to the possibilities as a fruit growing section, and a visit to the farms of these gentlemen. They are among the very best citizens of our town, public spirited and progressive and we are very glad to count them as Woodstock citizens, although they live close to the Paris line.

We have large forests of timber all about us and it would seem as if Bryant Pond would be a favorable location for some wood working industry. Let each and every citizen of this town ask himself if he is doing as much as he might towards making this old town grow and prosper. We may not all agree to what is to be done. It is not to be expected that we should, yet there are some things on which we can agree, and we can each do what we can to help improvement along.

We need a hotel, better schools, better roads and streets, fire protection, etc., and if we pull together we can have what we want.

Down in Newport the farmers and village people have worked together for the betterment of their town and they have accomplished things. We believe the people of Woodstock can and will do the same. Let us put aside all personal differences and work together to make this one of the brightest, busiest and best little towns in this grand old state of Maine.

Lewis M. Mann of West Paris is soon to build a large addition to his storehouse here.

H. Alton Bacon has been at South Woodstock building an auto garage for A. M. Andrews.

Erastus Bryant is very feeble.

Elbridge Crooker has been on the sick list, also Mildred McInnis.

John Foster has moved his family from Summer into his house here.

Daniel Bryant, and son Dannie and family, have moved from Locks Mills back on to their farm.

Mrs. Lydia Caroline Herriek from Rochester, N. H., visited at Mr. Emily J. Fells over Sunday. She went to her son's, Orlando Buck's, in Bethel, Monday.

Memorial Sunday will be observed at the Baptist church, May 30. An invitation has been extended to the A. M. Whitman Post of the G. A. R., and other friends.

The Memorial services will be observed Monday a. m. at 8 o'clock, the graves will be decorated and an address delivered by Rev. J. H. Little of South Paris. The order of the day has been somewhat changed for Mr. Little has to go to Summer in the afternoon. The graves of Brothers in other parts of the town will be decorated in the afternoon.

Alleged Murderer Arrested.
David Stevens was arrested in Rumford, May 21st, for the murder of Daniel Phillips, of Walpole, N. H., April 15, 1908. The two men are said to have been drinking in a Walpole saloon and later Phillips was found lying beside the road, suffering from wounds about the body, the most serious being a knife wound in the abdomen. He was taken to a hospital where he died a few days later. Stevens, who disappeared, was indicted for murder by the Cheshire county grand jury in October last. Phillips had been in Walpole for only a short time and Stevens was trampng through this section.

Phillips was 54 years of age.

Boston has organized a crusade against the common house fly, and it is interestingly suggested that the pesky insect be called "typhoid fly" instead of house fly in the future, as the scientific men allow that more typhoid is distributed by flies than by any other means. Boston folks who are interested in the extermination of the fly ask the co-operation of all New England, and the idea is a good one, for the fly can be wiped off the face of the earth, provided proper precautions are taken to prevent its breeding around stables, swill barrels and similar places.

Summer Time Decorations.

While the health is the heart of the home in winter, the porch holds sway in summer. The wise home-builder, therefore, sacrifices a bit of the back yard if necessary, in order to have extra room for a commodious veranda in front—and a veranda not too near the street. For the porch will be the family gathering place and half its charm will be lost if neighbors and passerby are to be included in all its pleasures.

Plenty of comfortable chairs, a low table where books or glasses may be within easy reach of one's elbow, plenty of cushions and perhaps a bright colored rug or two, will answer for the porch furnishings. Swinging seats of light wood or of rattan are very artistic for the porch and can afford them, and take up much less room than a hammock strung across valuable space.

For porch decoration nothing can equal growing vines and flowers and there are good growing vines which if trained over wire cords or lattice will in a short time afford a pleasant shade. This matter of shade is very important if the porch is to be a place of rest and sitting-room through the hot weather. Awnings are of course the ideal means of shading the porch, for they give a suggestion of space and airiness, and while kept out the sun admit plenty of breeze and light.

Flowers and awnings in combination give a most delightful gayety and suggestion of leisure to a summer cottage of even unpretentious style. A little white house may be made quite charming by red-striped awnings and window and porch boxes filled with red geraniums. Green and white awnings with green vines or porch plants are cool and restful in suggestion, and the comfortable rattan porch furniture comes in a particularly soft and pleasing shade of green.

An artistic porch flower box is shown; the old fern and foliage plants filling the box being mixed with a bushy plant covered with white berries. Boxes of this character are set along the wide railing of the porch and form a beautiful screen and often trailing vines like wandering Jew hang over the edge of the box and the railing.

The rustic character of the box illustrated will accord best with a porch of dark wood or with weather-stained shingles or clapboards. The cottage painted in white or a light color should have window and porch boxes to match or in some vividly contrasting shade like green or red which will blend with the flowers or with the stripes of the porch and window awnings. Growing ferns of the spread Scotti variety are always charming on the porch, and if a sufficiently large jardiniere of porcelain be too expensive, a wooden bucket robbed of its handle and painted a dark green will make a very satisfactory substitute.

In fact plant jars of this sort are really more satisfactory for porch use, for they need not be lifted indoors at night for fear of dripping.

Hanging plant stands of wicker come from Japan, where so much importance is attached to floral decorations of all kinds. These "stands" are really only wicker circles depending from long ropes, also of wicker, and twisted fiber. The plant jars set down into the wicker ring and swings above the porch floor.

From Japan, also, come the queer plant hangers in the forms of tiny animals and birds. These little affairs are of iron and are very strong. There are storks, frogs, and snakes which hook one to the other by means of crooked tails, bills or paws. As many as a dozen of these odd metal links may be required to make a chain long enough to hang a plant four feet from the floor.

China cornucopias are another pretty Japanese notion for porch decoration. These cornucopias are designed to hang against the house wall or on the porch pillars and they come in various sizes; some just big enough to hold a few drops of water, and a cluster of nasturtium; others large enough to accommodate a dozen chrysanthemums.

Window boxes are such an attractive and cheerful addition to the summer home that one wonders at the rows of bare housefronts on our streets. English folk realize to the full the value of window box decorations and in May smoky old London is ablaze with gay partners of flowers, even the most unpromising dwellings showing their pearly decorations.

For a sunny window in an invalid's room was built the pretty little conservatory, and great was the pleasure afforded by this miniature greenhouse. The little model is in every detail exactly like a practical greenhouse, except that in the model there is no glass and the house may be lifted from the base when the plants require attention. Ordinary watering is done by the invalid herself, who sprays the plants through the bars of the greenhouse roof and wall.—[Sunday Times.]

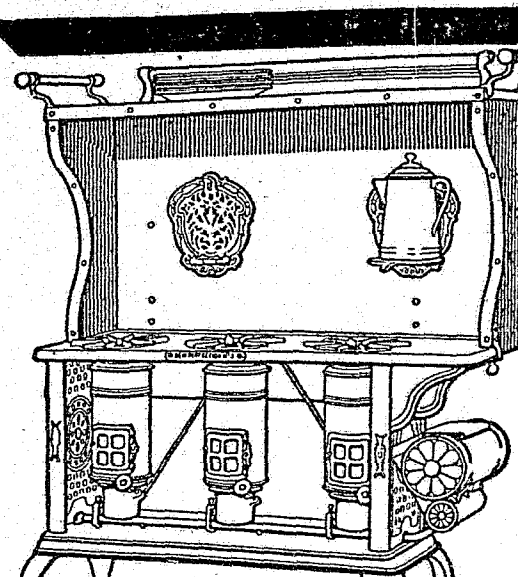

The summer girl is now in training.

Women as well as men are made miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The New Dog Law.
 The new dog law is one that should be read with interest, not only by every keeper of dogs, but by every farmer.
 It goes into effect April 1, 1910.
 The three most important points to the advantage of the farmer are that the license fee on the female dog has been raised from $3.15 to $5.15, which should tend to keep the female dogs in the minority and by cutting off the source of supplies lessen greatly the number of dogs.
 The farmer will no longer be obliged to take $3 for his sheep and let it go at that, no matter what the real value of the sheep is. If the owners of the sheep and the town officials are unable to come to any agreement as to the real value of the animal, the law provides for the appointing of referees who shall determine the value of the sheep and their decision shall be taken as final.
 The law also imposes a fine of from $50
 to $100 upon the owner of the dog found guilty of sheep killing.
 The owner has the option of killing the dog or paying the fine. In the great majority of cases the owner will kill the dog and thus do away with further damage from that source. Other features of the law are of interest and it will be worth while for both farmers and those owning dogs to become acquainted with all the points contained.

"The total of salaries paid to superintendents and teachers in the public schools of this country in 1870 was $38,000,000. In 1907 the total was $197,000,000. There should be no understanding of people at that rate of increase in the public expense of instruction."

NASAL CATARRH.
 Frank Kimball, Proprietor of the Noyes
 Drug Store Sells the Great Remedy That Cured Mrs. Karberg.
 Here is a very simple yet wholly sincere statement of a Michigan woman,
 who was cured by using Hymel's, the no-
 cure no pay remedy for catarrh, asthma,
 hay fever, croup, coughs and colds.
 "A bad case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of Hymel. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying. I had used many other remedies, but the use of Hymel was very gratifying. Hymel has from me a recommendation and endorsement."
 Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16, 1908.

Thousands of just such letters are in existence, and thousands more would be but for the desire to avoid publicity.
 If you have catarrh, bestir yourself, and drive it out of your system. Kill the germs. You can do that easily if you use Hymel (pronounced High-o-me).
 It is a dry, antiseptic and very pleasant air, that when inhaled, quickly relieves all forms of catarrhal inflammation, stops sniffles, hawking and blowing. The price for a complete outfit, including inhaler, is only $1.00 at Frank Kimball's, Prop. of the Noyes Drug Store.

EVERYBODY INVITED TO EXHIBITION. INDIAN CHIEF AND INDIAN CURIOSITIES AT FRANK KIM- BALL'S DRUG STORE.

KICKAPOO THEORIES OF "HERB MEDICINES" EXPLAINED

Trial Bottles of Sagawa Presented Free to Visitors

In connection with the interesting
 Indian Exhibit at Frank Kimball's drug store, now in progress, a representative of the Kickapoo Medicine Company is explaining to the public the Kickapoo theories of herb medicine. The public is invited to this demonstration. Everybody is welcome. The demonstration goes on all day and evening. Trial bottles of Kickapoo Sagawa will be presented free to everybody who calls, provided they desire to make a test of Sagawa as an appetizer, as a medicine which creates natural hunger, which helps naturally to help itself, which cures even severest stomach ailments in four to six weeks and completely restores the digestive powers.

This demonstration is one of a series of public demonstrations which have been given during the last six months
 in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. These demonstrations represent one of the most interesting movements of the present day.
 Everybody has his own theory about medical treatment. Some people believe that most diseases can be cured by the surgeon's knife, and so they out and slash and maim every time they get a chance. Other sects believe that strong results in smallest doses create the best results in medicines. And so they treat with medicines that everybody has to take with great fear, lest too large doses
 be taken by accident, or lest the drugs
 remain in the system even after the disease is in question are apparently cured.
 There is another school of medicine—
 if one can call it medicine—which believes that practically all diseases can be cured by "mental" treatment.

Then there is a fourth school of medicine which is so important that it is divided into various sects. This Kickapoo demonstration is in behalf of this fourth school.

This fourth school believes that the surgeon's knife should never be used,
 except as a last extremity; that dangerous mineral and similar products should practically never be used; that mental healing is a fact which is already being done because it has no solid foundation of accomplished results to stand on.
 This school believes that medicines
 composed of roots, barks, twigs, leaves,
 seeds and berries are the most beneficial, because they assist Nature in the right way, and Nature makes the cure.
 They go back to the Indians. They have studied the health and the medical treatment of the Indians. They know that the Native American Indian, before the ruin of modern civilization, was the healthiest race on the face of the globe.
 This demonstration is held for the purpose of explaining these herb theories and of giving trial bottles of Sagawa—the herb medicine which cures stomach, liver, and kidney diseases, to each person who visits the demonstration.

 These demonstrations have already attracted the attention of hundreds of thousands of people in other towns.
 They have been held in Bangor, Portland, Augusta, Lewiston, Bath, Biddorf, Waterville, and other towns in Maine. They have also been held in Manchester, Concord, Portsmouth,
 Dover, and elsewhere in New Hampshire. In addition they have been held in Fall River, Northampton, Springfield, Lowell, Salem, Lynn, Lawrence, New Bedford, Taunton, Quincy, Beverly, Mal-
 den, Haverhill, Holyoke, Pawtucket,
 Woonsocket, and many other towns.

Everywhere people have come to the demonstrations to learn about herb medicines. They know that they are now suffering from various ailments. They know that their health is at a low ebb.
 They know that they have headaches,
 backaches, stomachaches; they know that they have pain in their joints, in their neck, in their side, in their muscles. They know that they feel weak, exhausted, and run down. They know that they can't do their work as they should. They know that they have tried doctors of all kinds, and still suffer in the same way. They know that they have talked with their friends about their ailments, and have tried all kinds of various things suggested by their friends, and still they have the same ailments. Many of them have been suffering so long that they have become cynical. They believe that they are incurable, "Chronic" or incurable.
 A free trial bottle of Sagawa has proven to be the best and quickest means of breaking down the skepticism and prejudice of such ailing people—whether they have recently begun to suffer or have been ailing so long that they look upon themselves as "Chronic" or incurable.
 Wherever, in New England, at these Kickapoo Exhibitions, the largest number of Sagawa trial bottles have been given away, there have always, and invariably followed the largest sales of Sagawa.
 Isn't that convincing proof of the efficiency of Kickapoo Sagawa as a cure of Weak Stomachs?

All such people, as mentioned above,
 are invited to this Kickapoo Exhibition.
 This probably means that hundreds of people will call to talk with the demonstrator. In some of the towns mentioned above where the demonstration has already been held, two, three, four, and sometimes five hundred people called in one day. The longer the exhibition lasts, the more people call; consequently,

 it is very advantageous to those who are interested in finding out exactly what ails them to call immediately, so that the demonstrator can give more time to each person. The demonstration is not in the form of a lecture to a crowd. It is a personal, confidential talk between the demonstrator and the visitor.
 The demonstrator has become very skillful in diagnosing various ailments, having talked with so many thousands of people, who have called at the exhibitions in other cities. The trial bottle of Sagawa presented free to each visitor is to be carried home and taken before each meal. After the first meal, you will be interested more. By the time the free trial bottle is nearly used up,
 you will be going straight to the drug store for a regular bottle of Sagawa, for then you will know that at last you have found the right medicine.

The Kickapoo medicines are not secret, unknown medicines. The ingredients are printed plainly on each package.
 You know exactly what you are taking.
 They are a great deal plainer to you than the ingredients of a doctor's prescription. Not only are the ingredients the best medicines of their kind, but by the Kickapoo special combination of these ingredients the highest efficiency is obtained. Therefore, even though the same ingredients were put together in a prescription and taken, they would not accomplish the same results as the genuine Kickapoo medicines.

These Kickapoo medicines have through 25 years of increasing success proved their remarkable merit. They are known all over the country, and everybody knows just what each Kickapoo Medicine contains. They are in accordance with the Pure Food Law—indeed, they go far beyond what the Pure Food Law requires. They are in accordance with all of the best modern teachings regarding the printing of all of the ingredients on each package.

Furthermore, the Kickapoo medicines are sold under absolute guarantee to be satisfactory or money refunded. You will not have to make any difficult claim to get your money back either.
 Simply inform the druggist from whom you bought any Kickapoo Medicine, that you did not get the results that you expected, and he is authorized by The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Clifton-
 ville, Conn., to immediately refund your money. If you have any Stomach or Liver trouble, or any ailment that might come indirectly from disordered digestion, we advise that you go at once to Frank Kimball's Drug Store and get a free trial bottle of Kickapoo Sagawa,
 and learn more about the Kickapoo Theory of "Herb Medicines."

Liquor Men Taking Chances.

Probably there is not one gallon out of a thousand of the stuff shipped into Maine that complies with the requirements of the pure food act. The wholesalers practically admit this when they ask to have the federal court so construe the law that state officials shall not take advantage of it. It looks as though the wholesale rummers had no fear whatever of the federal officers acting under the pure food law.

Care of the Ice Chest.

There is no more fertile source for breeding germs in a house than a refrigerator, so the most scrupulous attention should be given to the condition in which all dishes are put away, the length of time foods are kept on the shelves, and the air in the ice box.

Sanitation is entirely against connecting refrigerator waste pipes directly with the drain, as is so commonly done in the city.

Charcoal or a lump of dry lime should always be kept in the food box, for either absorbs impurities, acting as a disinfectant.

At least once a week and preferably twice, in warm weather, a refrigerator should be entirely emptied, even the shelves removed, and every inch of the inside washed with strong warm ammonia water, the work being done quickly, that the box shall not entirely lose its coolness.

Every morning the food that has been left in from the day before must be taken out and examined. If it bears the slightest taint it must be thrown away, or, as is sometimes the case, scalded or cooked again to keep sweet, for one piece of starchy food in the refrigerator will hasten the spoiling of every other article.

If milk and butter must be kept in the general food box it is necessary to store them in glass, stone or china and they must be covered. Butter is extremely perishable, and incidentally, absorbs the odors of all other foods.

No food should be put away in anything but china or glass. Tin, or even silver, more or less affects food when they are kept together for any number of hours. The kitchen system is always better managed if there are certain plates and deep dishes for use in storing food.

Nothing even warm should be placed in the ice box, for one of the important points in keeping the chest in good condition is that it shall be quite dry always. Warmth, coming in contact with cold air, generates moisture, which hastens decay in the food.

Value in Old Tin Cans.

The old, empty tin can, which, having served the purpose for which it was originally intended, has been commonly despised as a thing of evil—fit only for the base use of the small boy who delights in attaching noisy objects to the caudal appendage of a stray cat, or for the culinary outfit of the nomadic soldier, or for littering the landscape with his unsightly presence—even the old tin can is evidently far from being the worthless thing which public opinion is accustomed to reckon it.

It is said they are collected by a New York man, and are shipped to Bayonne, N. J., where they are subjected to heat sufficient to melt the solder which is saved; and after they are cleaned, the residue is made into sack weights. This evidence of its commercial value may serve to increase popular respect for the old tin can.

A Cough Medicine

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a regular cough medicine, a strong medicine, a doctor's medicine. Good for easy coughs, hard coughs, desperate coughs. If your doctor endorses it for your case, take it. If not, don't take it. Never go contrary to his advice.

We publish our formulas. We furnish alcohol from our medicine. We urge you to consult your doctor.

The dose of Ayer's Pills is small, only one at bedtime. As a rule, laxative doses are better than cathartic doses. For constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick-headaches, they cannot be excelled. Ask your doctor about this.

Why the Indian Wanted a Desk.

A story is told of Quasah Parker, one of the old medicine chiefs, Parker had been extremely valuable in bringing the Comanches into friendly relations with the whites. He found himself getting on in years, but without any property, and his white neighbors thought it would be a good idea to collect money to build him a house. They did this and when the house was ready they told him, and he went to see it.

"There is no furniture here," he said.

"What do you want?" they asked.

He replied he wanted this and that and added, "I want a big desk—a great big desk."

"What do you want that for?"

"Well," he said, "I want to go in there and sit back in my chair and let my feet upon the desk, and some one will come in and knock at the door and say, 'Is this Mr. Parker?' 'Yes.' 'I want to speak to you.' And I will say, 'Oh, go away; I'm busy to-day.'"

Canning Rhubarb.

Have young crisp stalks of rhubarb skin and cut them as for stewing. Wash and pack into glass jars, then pour in a large pan and run cold water into them until they are running over.

Screw up the tops of jars until they are under water. This excludes all air and the rhubarb will be fresh when wanted for use. No heating or cooking is required.

MAINTAINING STONE ROADS.

Protective Value of Wood Meal Mixed With Oil and Tar.

One who is interested in road building and thinks he knows how to maintain a macadamized road in a thoroughly effective and cheap way says:

"If my observations are correct the destruction of a road by the action of the weather, small stones or pebbles are loosened by the wheels of vehicles and scattered over the road, leaving little holes therein. Now, as long as the wheels had iron tires these little stones were ground or crushed by those wheels, and the holes in the road, were filled again with their dust, the rains playing perhaps a good part in packing and filling the material.

"With the soft wheeled automobile all this changed for the worse. The rapid revolution of the broad wheels, and the action caused by them and by the low bodies of the machines loosed the little stones more easily and quickly, and as there are hardly any iron wheels left to grind and crush the loose pebbles the small holes soon become plentiful, and before long they grow into large ones and ruts.

"To sprinkle the roads with liquids is quite ineffective to prevent spoiling. It must be something that has a body that will bind the particles of the road, fill all holes and protect the surface. It must be solid enough to be strewn on the road. There are probably many ways of producing such a road protector, and many ingredients might be used for it, but one of the best, I think, would be wood meal—that is, ground sawdust, ground hay or straw, ground cornstarch or any such article which is cheap and plentiful and which can easily be ground to meal and which will float and not clog up the sewers if used in the city. This meal should be soaked in oil or mixed with oil or with a mixture of oil and tar or any other suitable binder, so that it will not only protect and keep intact the roads, but also lay the dust. If used on asphalt it would give a good footing for horses, which is sorely needed."

NORTH WATERFORD.

The antiquarian supper given under the auspices of the Womans Relief Corps on Saturday evening, May 22 was a decided success, both financially and socially. The good old-fashioned supper, consisting of brown bread and beans and baked Indian pudding with whipped cream, and a delicious strawberry and gingerbread was much enjoyed by all. The ladies, as was expected, wore costumes of ancient date. Several of the gowns were nearly half a century old, yet the style and fit of the gowns became the admiration of the ladies. Indeed, no doubt, have astonished their grandmothers. The program for the evening's entertainment was as follows:

The Medal Contest.

The entertainment given by classes '11 and '12 of the N. H. S. under the auspices of the W. O. T. U., Thursday evening, proved a great success, and was most satisfactory far than had been anticipated.

There was a good attendance and the applause was numerous, showing the appreciation of the fine work presented by the young folks.

The entertainment opened with music by Pearl Cook, followed by prayer by Rev. M. C. Ward.

The pupils of the eighth grade sang "Estuonia," and sang it so nicely that they were obliged to return and repeat it.

Francis E. Bartlett gave a sketch entitled "Two Pictures," which compared the picture of a bright, smart, innocent boy, free from sin and guilt, to one of the same boy, who to manhood had grown, but instead of a picture of innocence, now were engraved on his face the imprints of a drunkard, criminal and murderer thrust into prison.

"Sim's Little Girl" was spoken by Beryl McKee, who told of a man who upon being invited to take a "friendly glass," denied most emphatically, telling his companions his reason by saying that once he had a happy home with a wife and little daughter, when one day a companion invited him to indulge in a "friendly glass" and he accepted. Of course that was not the ending, for little by little he became more fond of it, and one day he was driving this engine, he was an engineer, past his home where he always saw his little girl watching for him, but this day she stood on the track waving a flag. He, half realizing the danger, but being so nearly under the influence of liquor, was unable to stop the train in time, thus killing his only child, which in time prostrated his wife, who never recovered. Now his home had been destroyed through that "friendly glass," and to his companion he desired to say that he had lost enough through that course, and had a guilty enough conscience to carry the remainder of his life.

The semi-chorus of mixed voices, very sweetly sang Barcarolle, O Lovely Night, and were encored. Marjorie Locke was accompanist.

Donald S. Bartlett gave a declamation entitled, "Prohibition a Civic Necessity." He said that the saloon should be done away with; that it was a menace to every city and community, endangering lives and robbing people of what they most need. Prohibition should become a state and national issue. It rests wholly in the power of the people and the united endeavor of the citizens to bring this to pass.

May Emerson recited the "Goose Tale" which is something like this. A farmer had some fine cherries and desiring to make some cherry rum, squeezed out the juice and threw what was left, by the river back of the house. It happened that some of the best geese that the farmer owned went to the river to swim, and found this refuse by the river, and ate; finally they toppled over as if dead. The farmer came along and found them, carried them home, and found them, carried them home, and found them, carried them home.

The semi-chorus of mixed voices sang "Dry Yo' Eyes" and were encored, and sang "My Old Kentucky Home," for their second selection.

"There were Ninety and Nine" was the title of Marion S. Smith's recitation. She told of a father who had a large family of sons and the oldest one had taken a downward course and had been the disgrace of the family through drink, gambling, etc., till finally he had been turned out into the world never to return to his home. He kept on his downward course, getting deeper and deeper into disgrace till one day when almost in despair, he received a letter from his father across the water, telling him of his paternal love for his wayward son, and that he would receive him at his old home again if he would but come, and in his coming he would bring the joy of life into his father's heart for he was the one that was lost and the one he loved the most. Through his father's love the boy decided he would return, and make the father happy for he came to him when he was a long way off.

"The Wild Beast of Old Civilization" was the subject of Aaron Yeaton's speech. He depicted the scenes as might be seen upon visiting various homes throughout the city where rum was used. Calling at one house here and another there would be found poverty, wretchedness, filth and in some cases, almost starvation, all being brought on through this monster, drink, which apparently remains sheltered and is allowed by the people and government, and children are allowed to be brought up in these horrible surroundings and robbed of the necessities and comforts of life to satisfy that thirst of others who have made them what they are, degraded creatures of humanity.

One of the prettiest drills which the girls have ever given at the Opera House was the Poppy Seed drill by the Freshman girls, who wore white dresses, a poppy hat and carried a white seed. It would be useless to try to describe the drill for we couldn't do it justice but the young ladies made a very graceful picture as they passed through the movements of the drill, keeping perfect time to the music, giving a very pretty effect.

The preparation of this program has taken a lot of time and practice, both on the part of the scholars and teachers, but they were paid for their work by the excellent manner in which the program was presented.

The judges were Rev. E. C. Wentworth, Alton C. Wheeler and Florence Whitman. At the close of the drill, Mr. Wheeler, answerer of the prizes, remarked that as usual in the awarding of prizes that there was only one prize and while all did very well one must be selected from the many. The four points for which the choice was made were clear voice, articulation, memory and general effect.

Two of the judges favored Donald S. Bartlett and one, May Emerson, for second prize, while all were unanimous in the choice of Marion S. Smith as winner of the first, the gold medal.

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains for a year, and I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — Mrs. EMMA LIME, 383 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

Why Men Wear Trousers.

No living man of this age ever deliberately chose to "adopt trousers." He was forced into them by all other circumstances of dress by woman. In the earliest satirical experience of every man he is swathed in a queer bundle of incoherent bandages by a woman. Later she puts him into little dresses so that he can't wear trousers. When he is a little older she puts him into knickerbockers, and she puts on long pants when she gives the word and not before. That is all that man has to do or ever had to do with wearing trousers. When a man is forced into them in the first place, and now he is afraid to wear any thing else for fear of making a sensation.

An Old-Fashioned Flower Garden

It seems as though we grow busier and busier every year, and the lover of flowers no longer has time for planting the annuals that we have come to think so essential to the flower garden. There is a way out of it, though, and that is to plant an old-fashioned garden of the hardy plants that hyberate throughout the cold spring and then spring up beautifully of their own accord. This change would be no hardship—and there are a great many people who prefer the flowers that mean so much to our grandmothers.

The ideal hardy garden will combine both sun and shade in its location, and for this you will have to make a study of your available garden space, perhaps even planting shrubbery or building fences where there is no natural shade. Not every one understands how to determine the amount of shade to expect from a given shrub. It is a simple matter, though, for you have only to drive a stake into the ground, opening an umbrella over it at the height your shrub will be when full grown—and then marking off with twigs thrust into the ground the edge of the shadow cast by the umbrella. This will show you both how close to plant the flowers that require shade, and how far apart to plant those that need the sun all day.

Let the nurseryman take the risk and the waiting, and do you buy the largest flowers, shrubs and trees you can afford. The drainage is the next most important matter to be considered. Your beds once dug down to the sub-soil will find rocks and sand—a natural drainage—or you may come upon sticky clay, in which case you will have to sink some hollow tiles about a foot beneath the bottom of your bed, covering them with stones, gravel and ashes. It will pay you, finally, to fill in the beds with a composted soil, or to make your own compost by mixing two parts of upturned sods with one part stable manure, together with a good sprinkling of boned meal and lime. This should be well drenched with water, covered with straw and allowed to stand for as much as a month, after which it should be thoroughly mixed and packed into the beds. It may sound like a lot of trouble, but it has to be done only once, and the garden will last a lifetime.

The thorough planting of this old-fashioned garden cannot all be done in one season. You may begin it with much sizeable plants as foxgloves, larkspurs, asters and daisies, chrysanthemums, hibiscus and hollyhocks, iris, peonies and phlox, but you should wait till the second or third year's shade for your undergrowth of violets, forget-me-nots and ferns.

Quaker Oats Griddle Cakes

Try them today!
The family that hasn't eaten Quaker Oats griddle cakes has a delightful surprise coming to it. Besides the delicious flavor, there is the pleasure of knowing you can eat all you want, and the more you eat the better for you. The best of all foods for anyone wanting more strength and vigor.

Hundreds of thousands of packages of Quaker Oats are consumed in Germany annually and almost all of it eaten in the form of Quaker Oats griddle cakes. In the New York cereal restaurant of the Quaker Oats Company these griddle cakes are very popular.

Here's the best recipe for making them:
2 cups Quaker Oats (uncooked); 1½ cup flour; 1 teaspoonful salt; 1 teaspoonful soda; dissolve in two tablespoonfuls hot water; 1 teaspoonful baking powder (mix in flour); 2½ cups sour milk or buttermilk; 2 cups beaten eggs; 1 tablespoonful sugar; 1 or 2 table-spoonfuls melted butter (according to richness of milk).
Process: Soak Quaker Oats over night in milk. In the morning mix and sift flour, soda, sugar and salt—add this to Quaker Oats mixture and quantity of melted butter; add eggs beaten lightly—beat thoroughly and cook as griddle cakes—they make your mouth water for more.

"If I were you I'd be going to some show every night."
